Galloway Ridge is a not-for-profit continuing care retirement community.

Established in 2006, the Galloway Ridge Charitable Fund is a means for residents and other donors to support Chatham County not-for-profits as well as schools and governmental agency projects through tax-deductible donations.

Anually the Fund invites eligible groups in Chatham County to apply for community grants, with both well-established and new smaller agencies considered for funding. An effort is made to fund projects in various locations within this large and rural county.

Applications for community grants are reviewed by a committee drawn from residents of Galloway Ridge and the county at large.
